Brown Urging Arbitration In Phone Strike

Governor's Secretary Tapped By Union To Hear Lengthy Dispute

COLUMBUS (AP)—Gov. John W. Brown today forwarded to Clare E. Williams, president of Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co., a proposal for arbitration from J. Curtis Fletcher, national director of the Communications Workers of America, on strike against Ohio Consolidated for 183 days.

The proposal came as the Portsmouth area was threatened with a new telephone black-out resulting from a rash of cable slashings which have knocked out approximately 11,000 of Scioto County's 17,480 telephones.

Negotiations for a new contract have been tightly deadlocked since before the strike began last July 15. CWA locals in the 24 Ohio counties last month turned down what the company called its "final offer" for a settlement.

Union shop, classification of supervisory employees, a no strike clause and a dozen of the issues have stalemated negotiations.

Brown's secretary, Martin A. Coyle, forwarded to Williams a letter from Fletcher which said: "The union is of the firm belief that this matter should be resolved by arbitration."

FLETCHER'S letter also said the union generally is opposed to arbitration "as a substitute for free collective bargaining," but it added:

"This situation, however, deviates from the norm to such a degree as to make arbitration a practicable solution. With respect to the choice of an arbitrator we would be pleased to have you (Coyle) serve in that capacity."

If Coyle could not serve as arbitrator, Fletcher said, the union would accept anyone appointed by Brown, the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service or the American Arbitration Assn.

Meanwhile, Ohio Consolidated's publicists decried a "week-long orgy of violence to property" in the Portsmouth area.

CWA has consistently denied responsibility for any violence. "Despite the sincere efforts of the Portsmouth police," said company president Williams, "the violence to property that has characterized the strike of the CWA in Scioto County continues."

"Nevertheless," Williams went on, "the company is continuing its efforts to restore disrupted services as rapidly as possible."

The company announced a reward of $1,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any persons willfully damaging its property.

5 Murderers See Sentences Erased

COLUMBUS (AP)—Gov. John W. Brown Friday commuted the sentences of five convicted murderers from first to second degree murder.

Brown said these would be the only commutations during his 11-day term which expires Monday.

The commutations were granted to Eugene Watson, 59, of Findlay; Dudley Adams, 44, of East Liverpool; Cassil Patton, 50, of Portsmouth; and Anthony Liberatore, 35, and Mario Gallina, 38, both of Cleveland.

Thieves Return Unwanted Autos

FREEPORT, Ill. (AP)—Thieves who broke into the McCullough Motor Co. garage apparently wanted only one car—the flashy, new hardtop in the company's main display room.

To get it, the thieves had to drive two other new cars into the street. Then they took the car from the display room. But before driving away they drove the other two cars back into the garage.

Owner E. G. McCullough didn't report the loss to police for a couple of hours after arriving at work Friday. He had assumed the car had been sold.

Ike Seen Staying On Outside In Selection Of Party Chief

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower was reported today to be inclined to stay on the sidelines if a fight develops within the Republican National Committee over the choice of a new party chairman.

Leonard Hall resigned the chairmanship Friday after consulting with Eisenhower. The resignation will be effective Feb. 1.

Hall notified the 146 members of the GOP national committee he expects them to select his successor at a Jan. 22 meeting here. Hall also announced he will

'Hopeless' Cancer Cases Find New Aid

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—An authority on atomic medicine said today "a considerable number of people" once pronounced hopelessly stricken with thyroid cancer are alive and well after treatment with radioactive iodine.

Free of thyroid cancer symptoms, they now meet the medical definition of a "10-year-cure," Dr. John Bowers told a seminar sponsored by the Arizona division of the American Cancer Society.

These people were treated with the radioactive substance only after they had been diagnosed as beyond surgical help because the cancer had spread from their thyroid glands to their lungs or elsewhere. The substance was produced in a cyclotron at the University of California.

When taken into the body, iodine finds its way to the thyroid gland. When the iodine is radioactive it gives off rays, and these rays can kill the cells it enters.

Successful treatment destroys the gland itself and any thyroid tissue it reaches in the lungs or elsewhere in the body.

A patient so treated has to take thyroid pills afterwards because he has no gland for producing the substance naturally.

Dr. Bowers, dean of the University of Wisconsin Medical School, said there is no telling how many people have been saved by this treatment, and no way of predicting whether their disease ever will reappear.

Ike Set To Tour Drought Region

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower starts a six-state inspection trip Sunday in which he will view the worst U. S. drought conditions in 100 years.

Included in the presidential party will be Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—It didn't take an electronics expert to figure out why Victor Barnes' hi-fi had weird noises.

Policeman Gerald Baker answered Barnes' trouble call Friday. He heard the noises, wrapped the set in a blanket as a precaution, and headed for the garage.

When Baker opened the back of the set, an imprisoned squirrel raced out to freedom.

name a seven-member subcommittee Jan. 19 to consult with Eisenhower and recommend a party chief. This signified that the President will retain a veto over the choice.

While Eisenhower could designate the man he wants for the job, influential Republicans said they believe the President would like to confine himself to approval of a list of men acceptable to him, leaving the final choice to the committee itself.

SOME PARTY figures whose names have figured prominently in speculation over Hall's successor have met with objections from some elements of the GOP.

Among these, L. Judson Morhouse, New York National Committeeman, picked up some immediate support. But Morhouse's connection with former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York was being cited by some Republicans who don't like Dewey's continued influence in party affairs.

Midwestern and Rocky Mountain state Republicans are expected to get behind Ray Bliss, Ohio state chairman.

But some party members question whether Bliss represents the "modern Republicanism" Eisenhower preaches.

Also mentioned as a possibility for the chairmanship has been former Gov. Howard Pyle of Arizona, now a White House aide in charge of maintaining liaison with Republican members of Congress. But Pyle has had little direct connection with the national committee. He probably would have to have firm Eisenhower backing to get the job.

Columbus Lab Chiefs Probe Fatal Blasts

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ranco, Inc., began surveying damage to its research and testing laboratory here today. It was shattered Friday by two explosions that killed an Ohio State University student.

Paul Burke Jr., a 23-year-old Navy veteran and father of a nine-month-old daughter, was killed in the blasts while he was performing his parttime duties at the lab where he was employed while studying engineering at OSU.

Eighteen other persons required hospital treatment. The most seriously injured were John Bobo, 38, Paul Drake, 39, and Keith Bray, 24. University Hospital officials said they were in fair condition. Others hospitalized were reported to be in good condition.

Robert B. Eddy, company treasurer, said there was no estimate of damage yet.

Battalion Fire Chief J. C. O'Connor said Burke, son of the production superintendent of the Ranco plant at Delaware, was working with a 20-lb tank of liquid propane gas when it ruptured from excessive pressure, creating the first blast.

O'Connor said the gas expanded rapidly through the western part of the one-story building, then ignited to set off the second and major blast that did most of the damage. The plant sprinkler system prevented fire.

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda said today Russia's "oldest bolshevik" is dead.

She was F. I. Drabkina, 94, a woman writer and revolutionary who became a Communist in 1902, was a member of the first Bolshevik fighting unit in Moscow and smuggled arms for the abortive 1905 revolution.

Her obituary in today's Pravda did not give the date of her death.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—The death toll has been fixed at 11 in the crash of a state airline plane just after it took off from Buenos Aires Airport.

The plane, bound for the seaside resort of Mar Del Plata, plunged down on Riverside Avenue Friday, and burned.

Graham Gulps Gas To Pay For Slaying 44 In Airliner

CANYON CITY, Colo. (AP)—Coolly accepting his fate, John Gilbert Graham was executed Friday night in Colorado's gas chamber for destroying an airliner that carried his mother and 43 other persons to death.

The 24-year-old father of two children gulped the cyanide fumes and was pronounced dead in 12 minutes.

Graham was convicted of murdering his mother, Mrs. Daisie E. King, 53. She perished with 43 other men, women and children Nov. 1, 1955, when a United Air Lines DC6B was shattered by a dynamite bomb. It crashed in a field near Longmont, Colo.

Although he never disclosed a motive for planting a dynamite device in his mother's luggage,

Graham named himself beneficiary in a $37,500 flight insurance policy he took out on his mother.

The husky, dark-haired killer went to death "the calmest I've ever seen," said deputy warden William Kinney, who has witnessed all 26 executions in Colorado's gas chamber.

He was led blindfolded to the waiting chair in the steel cocoon of death. His arms and legs were shackled by heavy leather straps and a stethoscope was mounted to his bare chest.

Before he left the death chamber, Warden Harry Tinsley patted the blindfolded man's shoulder.

"Thanks, warden," Graham muttered—his last words.

The door to the chamber clanked shut and was locked.

A minute later 32 sodium cyanide pellets held in a steel cup beneath the chair were released. They dropped 18 inches into a container of sulphuric acid.

His pale skin dry under the brilliant lights, Graham started to die. His dark-thatched head bobbed back, then slumped forward as he gulped for breath. His neck was tense and from his throat came a shrill groan.

In the prison administration building a guard walked to a small bulletin board and fingered a calendar-like roll of figures, changed it from 1,572 to 1,571. The prison had one less inmate.

U.S. Views On Missiles To Be Aired

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States is expected to outline a broad proposal for international control over space missiles Monday when the U. N. political committee takes up the key arms question.

Informed sources indicated U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. would relay President Eisenhower's call for a "reliable agreement" on controlling military use of such projectiles.

Eisenhower set the stage for such a proposal in his State of the Union message Thursday. In effect, the President called for an air tight agreement within the framework of the U. N. on the use of intercontinental ballistic missiles.

U. S. officials in Washington disclosed recently that the United States has revamped its disarmament plan to include long range missile control. The prospect that the next few years will see the development of intercontinental missiles capable of carrying nuclear warheads was said to have increased the pressure for controls.

The United States is not expected to present a resolution on the missiles question since it is up to the five-nation U. N. disarmament subcommittee to take action on any arms problem when it meets, probably in March.

Experts Prove To Be Wrong In Seeing Dull Lausche Role

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Washington Post & Times Herald recently commented, "Sen. Lausche of Ohio has acquired unusual prominence in the new Congress."

The newspaper was talking about Lausche's dramatic assist to the Democrats in helping them gain control of the Senate.

But the editorial added: "Mavericks have not been very popular in the Senate, particularly in committee assignments."

Other observers also were guessing that Lausche might find it a little difficult to go it alone in the Senate. Regularity, on certain matters, is a prized virtue there.

So far, however, the "experts" have been wrong. Far from being assigned to lesser committee assignments, Lausche was appointed to two of the top committees—Commerce and Banking. These committees deal with legislation affecting just about every aspect of American industry.

AS IT HAPPENED, Lausche's Ohio colleague, Republican John Bricker, is a member of the same committees. Bricker, in fact, would be chairman of the Commerce Committee if the GOP had Senate control.

To give an idea of the enormous range of legislation Lausche will be concerned with in the new Congress, here are some of the

Khrushchev Just Misses Being Ousted

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times said today in a dispatch from Warsaw that Soviet Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev was reported to have barely survived a challenge to his leadership.

The Times gave this account: Khrushchev faced the challenge at a meeting of the party's central committee in Moscow last month. He won by a slim majority on a vote to replace him as first secretary of the party with former premier Georgi Malenkov.

The reports said Malenkov probably will soon take over the party secretariatship, a post of great power in a country where the party controls the government. Under this arrangement, they added, Khrushchev would succeed Marshal Nikolai A. Bulganin as premier. Bulganin, in turn, would replace Klementi Y. Vososlov as chairman of the presidium of the Supreme Soviet, nearest equivalent to a president of the Soviet Union.

V. M. Molotov, former foreign minister and now minister of state control, was said to be playing only a secondary role in Soviet leadership.

2 Congressional Groups Study $834,150 Deal

WASHINGTON (AP)—Asst. Secretary of Defense Robert Tripp Ross today began a self-imposed leave of absence pending completion of congressional investigations of an Army contract held by a firm headed by his wife.

Ross is the husband of Mrs. Claire Wynn Ross, president of Wynn Enterprises Inc., Knoxville, Tenn. Last Nov. 13, this firm was awarded an $834,150 Army contract for 249,000 pairs of cotton trousers.

The Senate and House government operations committees started inquiries when details of the contract were published.

Friday night, Ross made public a letter to Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), chairman of the Senate committee. Ross' letter said "a complete documentation of the facts" would show the contract award "was made in accordance with normal procurement procedures."

Then he told McClellan he was taking a leave of absence until the investigations of the contract had been completed "and the matter has been cleared up."

CIO Aide Hits Industry For 'Profiteering'

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Ohio CIO Council ends its 18th constitutional convention today with election of officers and members of the executive board.

The 1,400 delegates attending the three-day meeting Friday heard Emil Mazy, secretary-treasurer of the United Auto Workers, accuse industry of profiteering on wage increases, saying that prices have been increased more than was necessary to cover the actual cost of wage raises.

"The reason we have inflation today," Mazy said, "is due to the greed of American big business for profits and not because of wage increases."

He said the boosting of prices by General Motors Corp. on its 1956 cars "didn't make sense" because the firm made a net profit of $1,890,000,000 in 1955.

Jack Kroll, co-director of the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education, told the delegates the election of former Gov. Frank J. Lausche to the U. S. Senate was a "blessing" for Ohio.

"I'll admit that's a high price to pay," the former Ohio CIO president said, "but if it means that we in Ohio can develop a real two-party system, the price is well worth paying to get rid of a governor we have been burdened with for many years."

Kroll said he hoped Ohio labor would be able to speak "politically with one voice" by 1958.

Graham Gulps Gas To Pay For Slaying 44 In Airliner

CANYON CITY, Colo. (AP)—Coolly accepting his fate, John Gilbert Graham was executed Friday night in Colorado's gas chamber for destroying an airliner that carried his mother and 43 other persons to death.

The 24-year-old father of two children gulped the cyanide fumes and was pronounced dead in 12 minutes.

Graham was convicted of murdering his mother, Mrs. Daisie E. King, 53. She perished with 43 other men, women and children Nov. 1, 1955, when a United Air Lines DC6B was shattered by a dynamite bomb. It crashed in a field near Longmont, Colo.

Although he never disclosed a motive for planting a dynamite device in his mother's luggage,

Graham named himself beneficiary in a $37,500 flight insurance policy he took out on his mother.

The husky, dark-haired killer went to death "the calmest I've ever seen," said deputy warden William Kinney, who has witnessed all 26 executions in Colorado's gas chamber.

He was led blindfolded to the waiting chair in the steel cocoon of death. His arms and legs were shackled by heavy leather straps and a stethoscope was mounted to his bare chest.

Before he left the death chamber, Warden Harry Tinsley patted the blindfolded man's shoulders.

"Thanks, warden," Graham muttered—his last words.

The door to the chamber clanked shut and was locked.

A minute later 32 sodium cyanide pellets held in a steel cup beneath the chair were released. They dropped 18 inches into a container of sulphuric acid.

His pale skin dry under the brilliant lights, Graham started to die. His dark-thatched head bobbed back, then slumped forward as he gulped for breath. His neck was tense and from his throat came a shrill groan.

In the prison administration building a guard walked to a small bulletin board and fingered a calendar-like roll of figures, changed it from 1,572 to 1,571. The prison had one less inmate.

Thief Holds Key To Park Meters

DETROIT (AP)—They don't give thieves the key to the city. But one thief at large in Detroit has something he considers infinitely better; a key to some 2,000 of the city's 7,200 parking meters.

Detectives report that for two months, he's been helping him self to part of the city's $60,000 a month parking meter take.

U.S. Views On Missiles To Be Aired

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States is expected to outline a broad proposal for international control over space missiles Monday when the U. N. political committee takes up the key arms question.

Informed sources indicated U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. would relay President Eisenhower's call for a "reliable agreement" on controlling military use of such projectiles.

Eisenhower set the stage for such a proposal in his State of the Union message Thursday. In effect, the President called for an air tight agreement within the framework of the U. N. on the use of intercontinental ballistic missiles.

U. S. officials in Washington disclosed recently that the United States has revamped its disarmament plan to include long range missile control. The prospect that the next few years will see the development of intercontinental missiles capable of carrying nuclear warheads was said to have increased the pressure for controls.

The United States is not expected to present a resolution on the missiles question since it is up to the five-nation U. N. disarmament subcommittee to take action on any arms problem when it meets, probably in March.

Khrushchev Just Misses Being Ousted

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times said today in a dispatch from Warsaw that Soviet Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev was reported to have barely survived a challenge to his leadership.

The Times gave this account: Khrushchev faced the challenge at a meeting of the party's central committee in Moscow last month. He won by a slim majority on a vote to replace him as first secretary of the party with former premier Georgi Malenkov.

The reports said Malenkov probably will soon take over the party secretariatship, a post of great power in a country where the party controls the government. Under this arrangement, they added, Khrushchev would succeed Marshal Nikolai A. Bulganin as premier.

Bulganin, in turn, would replace Klementi Y. Vososhilov as chairman of the presidium of the Supreme Soviet, nearest equivalent to a president of the Soviet Union.

V. M. Molotov, former foreign minister and now minister of state control, was said to be playing only a secondary role in Soviet leadership.

Tunnel Of Death Re-Opened In Italy

ANCONA, Italy (AP)—Ancona's tunnel of death has been opened for the first time in 13 years. Authorities who looked inside said the bodies of 500 air raid victims there probably never could be identified.

The victims died in an Allied air raid Nov. 11, 1943, when a bomb exploded at the entrance of the tunnel. The entrance was sealed after rescue crews dug into the shelter and found no survivors.

2 Congressional Groups Study $834,150 Deal

Assistant Secretary Of Defense Denies He Tied To Wife's Firm

WASHINGTON (AP)—Asst. Secretary of Defense Robert Tripp Ross today began a self-imposed leave of absence pending completion of congressional investigations of an Army contract held by a firm headed by his wife.

Ross is the husband of Mrs. Claire Wynn Ross, president of Wynn Enterprises, Inc., Knoxville, Tenn. Last Nov. 13, this firm was awarded an $834,150 Army contract for 249,000 pairs of cotton trousers.

The Senate and House government operations committees started inquiries when details of the contract were published.

Friday night, Ross made public a letter to Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.), chairman of the Senate committee. Ross' letter said "a complete documentation of the facts" would show the contract award "was made in accordance with normal procurement procedures."

Then he told McClellan he was taking a leave of absence until the investigations of the contract had been completed "and the matter has been cleared up."

ROSS, WHO has been handling Defense Department liaison with Congress and directing the department's public relations policy, formerly was vice president of Wynn Enterprises and an official of Southern Athletic Co., also of Knoxville.

Defense Department records show since 1951 contracts totaling more than $7,700,000 have been awarded to Wynn Enterprises, Southern Athletic Co. and its affiliated companies in February 1952. That was after his election to Congress, as a Republican, from a New York district.

In March 1954, Ross joined the Defense Department as deputy assistant secretary for legislative affairs. A year later, he was raised to assistant secretary for legislative and public affairs.

Ross said of the contract in question that Wynn Enterprises was awarded it "as low responsible bidder." Mrs. Ross has said her firm's bid was $75,000 under that of the next highest firm which sought the contract.

In his letter to McClellan, Ross said news reports about the contract and about the related committee investigations "have given rise to the very serious implications that there was something improper about this award."

Therefore, Ross told the senator, he had advised Secretary of Defense Wilson that "I am taking a leave of absence from my position until the matter has been cleared up."

CIO Aide Hits Industry For 'Profiteering'

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Ohio CIO Council ends its 18th constitutional convention today with election of officers and members of the executive board.

The 1,400 delegates attending the three-day meeting Friday heard Emil Mazey, secretary-treasurer of the United Auto Workers, accuse industry of profiteering on wage increases, saying that prices have been increased more than was necessary to cover the actual cost of wage raises.

"The reason we have inflation today," Mazey said, "is due to the greed of American big business for profits and not because of wage increases."

He said the boosting of prices by General Motors Corp. on its 1956 cars "didn't make sense" because the firm made a net profit of $1,890,000,000 in 1955.

Jack Kroll, co-director of the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education, told the delegates the election of former Gov. Frank J. Lausche to the U. S. Senate was a "blessing" for Ohio.

"I'll admit that's a high price to pay," the former Ohio CIO president said, "but if it means that we in Ohio can develop a real two-party system, the price is well worth paying to get rid of a governor we have been burdened with for many years."

Kroll said he hoped Ohio labor would be able to speak "politically with one voice" by 1958.

Yemenites, British Debate On Attacks

BONN, Germany (AP)—The Yemeni legation here said Friday "several hundred people" had been killed in British bomber and tank attacks on Yemen in the last two days.

The legation said the attacks were made on the cities of Kataba, Harib and Albaida. It said 10 foreigners "who used to live in Aden" were among the dead.

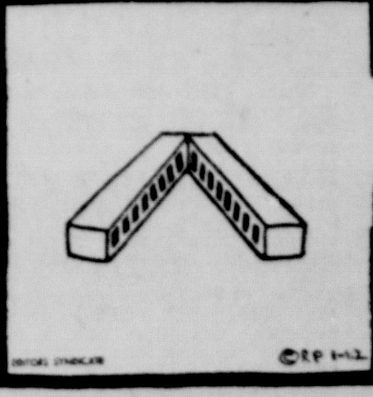

The British Embassy issued a statement that the true situation was the reverse—that it was Yemeni tribesmen who were attacking the British in Aden.

Most Alligators would rather sleep in the mud or eat an explorer than play the Harmonica but there are exceptions. For instance, the cut Alligator, Sampson. He's the cutest little fella you'd ever want to have your finger snapped off by and you can take my word for it he's far from stupid. Matter of fact, Sampson is quite fun-loving and one of his favorite tricks is to hide among the women's Handbags when I have a party. I'll admit it is hilarious to watch the expression on a girl's face when she reaches into her lipstick but I wish he'd cut it out. It isn't the screaming and hollering that bothers me. The thing I don't like is when their husbands punch me in the nose.

Church Building Fund Drive Passes $2,000

Contributions in support of the plan to build a church for the Lowery Lane area have already passed the $2,000 level, leaders of the program revealed today.

Progress on the project was reported in detail at the latest meeting of the district ministerial association. The association met at the Church of the Nazarene.

The Rev. Carl Zehner, chairman of the newly launched church-building effort, called for reports from the various churches on their share of the building fund. The project is being guided by the Circleville Community Missions Committee.

MONTFORD KIRKWOOD, treasurer of the committee, reported $2,238.71 already on hand, with more to come from those reporting. Several church groups have yet to turn in their reports. A number of private individuals and civic groups have already announced their support.

It has been estimated that $15,000 will be needed to complete the project.

Lots for the church building job have been donated, and also the excavation work.

Ground was broken for the project last week.

The plan of financing for each church in Pickaway County is, where possible, $225 plus one dollar per member.

Urgent Needs Of Hungarians List Clothing

Pickaway County residents were assured today they can send clothing donations to Hungarian refugees overseas through local churches or any one of several community groups.

Mrs. F. C. Tammany of Knollwood Village, volunteer worker here in behalf of emergency Hungarian relief, emphasized that clothing donations are welcomed whenever that method of assistance is preferred to a cash contribution. In addition to clothing, Mrs. Tammany explained, Hungarian refugees overseas are in urgent need of suitcases, duffle bags and similar belongings.

Thousands of refugees are being admitted to the United States. Mrs. Tammany, herself a native of Hungary, said:

"THE MAIN thing above all else that we want to maintain is the public's interest in the terrible emergency facing the homeless Hungarians overseas. All the aid is deeply appreciated.

"Clothing donations are badly needed, and we don't care how they are sent as long as they reach the people for whom they are intended. The good people of Pickaway County can send such donations through their own churches, or the Red Cross, or through Hungarian Relief, through civic groups or perhaps through other agencies."

Anyone desiring further information on the matter of Hungarian relief efforts should phone Mrs. Tammany at 803-Y.

THIS FAMILY ORGANIZATION MAY TOTAL UP TO 15,000!

By LAMONT JOHNSON
Central Press Association
Correspondent

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah — With a potential membership estimated at 15,000, the Ezekiel Johnson family claims to have the largest organization of its kind in the world.

First organized here on April 4, 1935, it now rapidly is swelling its rolls as more far-distant relatives hear of it. They are scattered in nearly every town in Utah, all western states and some others; also in Mexico, Canada and Japan.

The group holds regular elections and reunions, and publishes a quarterly bulletin giving family news, genealogy and historical notes covering every individual family line that can be located.

The recognized forebears of this immense clan originated in Massachusetts in pre-Revolutionary days. One historical item says Ezekiel Johnson was not yet born when his father died during Revolutionary fighting in 1776.

HIS MOTHER then married a man named James King, and, considering the present vast lineage, enough to form a kingdom, it is a family joke to assert that that name probably got reversed; it should have been "King James" instead of James King.

Young Ezekiel did not like "King James," for he ran away from home and step-father, and never was heard of again until in 1801, when, on his 25th birthday, he married Julia Hills. From then until 1829 they produced 16 children. One died in infancy and several others did not marry, but progeny of the rest of them constitutes the army which now claims to be the biggest family.

Most of these, however, as well as the motivating root of the organization itself, come from five brothers in the group—Joel Hills Johnson, Joseph Ellis Johnson, Benjamin Franklin Johnson, George Washington Johnson and William Derby Johnson.

A FURTHER CLAIM is made that these five brothers founded more towns than any other family in the Mormon church, if not in all America. In their great pioneering trek westward, they founded new towns almost across the nation from Massachusetts through Vermont, New York, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Iowa and Utah, thence on to Arizona and Old Mexico.

The first four of these brothers were polygamists, thus giving them a head start over other "big family" claimants. Joel had five wives and 30 children; Joseph had three wives and 29 children; Benjamin had seven wives and 42 children to make him one of the leading polygamists of Mormon history; George had three wives and 20 children.

William's one wife married him on condition that she be the sole Queen Bee of the household, to which he consented, but they still raised one dozen offspring. That made 19 wives and 133 children for these five brothers.

THE ELDEST SON, Joel, joined the Mormon church during the first year after Joseph Smith organized it in April, 1830, at Kirtland, O. When Joel returned from Ohio to the family home at Pom-

Fearing that her husband would not accept the new "fanatical" religion, and, being a headstrong and obstinate woman, Julia had herself and all her willing children baptized on the sly. This insult to his pride as head of the house offended Ezekiel so that he never would join the Mormons, although he followed

Wallace, County Committee Endorse Highway Safety Plan

Strong support was developing here today for Assembly passage of a six-point highway safety plan originally prepared by the Governor's Traffic Safety Committee.

It will be the second attempt to win legislative approval for the program.

Pickaway County state representative Ed Wallace said he would vote for the program if it is put before the Assembly during the forthcoming session. Wallace declared such a program, "has been long overdue."

Additional approval has come from the Pickaway County Traffic Safety Committee. Committee Chairman Darrell Hatfield said the group "wholeheartedly" endorses the plan to cut the steadily climbing accident rate in the state.

THE SAFETY program, a consolidation of separate bills which had failed to win the legislators' approval during the last Assembly session, would require periodic inspection of all motor vehicles registered in Ohio, in addition to introducing a demerit system to rule chronic violators off the road.

Both Wallace and Hatfield agreed that lack of public interest which has hampered similar proposals in the past, also endangers the pending program.

"Unfortunately," Hatfield said, "most people become aroused about this sort of thing only when an accident hits close to home."

DENISON, Tex. (AP) — The practice of holding something in lieu of payment has been going on for a long time, said Judge C. B. Carroll, but he told a woman who came into his office that she was carrying it a bit too far.

She said she had been holding the couple's two babies trying to get them to pay up. The judge told her to get the babies home to their mother before she had more to worry about than money owed her.

THIS FAMILY ORGANIZATION MAY TOTAL UP TO 15,000!

By LAMONT JOHNSON
Central Press Association
Correspondent

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah — With a potential membership estimated at 15,000, the Ezekiel Johnson family claims to have the largest organization of its kind in the world.

First organized here on April 4, 1935, it now rapidly is swelling its rolls as more far-distant relatives hear of it. They are scattered in nearly every town in Utah, all western states and some others; also in Mexico, Canada and Japan.

The group holds regular elections and reunions, and publishes a quarterly bulletin giving family news, genealogy and historical notes covering every individual family line that can be located.

The recognized forebears of this immense clan originated in Massachusetts in pre-Revolutionary days. One historical item says Ezekiel Johnson was not yet born when his father died during Revolutionary fighting in 1776.

HIS MOTHER then married a man named James King, and, considering the present vast lineage, enough to form a kingdom, it is a family joke to assert that that name probably got reversed; it should have been "King James" instead of James King.

Young Ezekiel did not like "King James," for he ran away from home and step-father, and never was heard of again until in 1801, when, on his 25th birthday, he married Julia Hills. From then until 1829 they produced 16 children. One died in infancy and several others did not marry, but progeny of the rest of them constitutes the army which now claims to be the biggest family.

Most of these, however, as well as the motivating root of the organization itself, come from five brothers in the group—Joel Hills Johnson, Joseph Ellis Johnson, Benjamin Franklin Johnson, George Washington Johnson and William Derby Johnson.

A FURTHER CLAIM is made that these five brothers founded more towns than any other family in the Mormon church, if not in all America. In their great pioneering trek westward, they founded new towns almost across the nation from Massachusetts through Vermont, New York, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Iowa and Utah, thence on to Arizona and Old Mexico.

The first four of these brothers were polygamists, thus giving them a head start over other "big family" claimants. Joel had five wives and 30 children; Joseph Ellis had three wives and 29 children; Benjamin had seven wives and 42 children to make him one of the leading polygamists of Mormon history; George had three wives and 20 children.

William's one wife married him on condition that she be the sole Queen Bee of the household, to which he consented, but they still raised one dozen offspring. That made 19 wives and 133 children for these five brothers.

THE ELDEST SON, Joel, joined the Mormon church during the first year after Joseph Smith organized it in April, 1830, at Kirtland, O. When Joel returned from Ohio to the family home at Pomphret, Chautauque county, N. Y., in 1831, he took a Book of Mormon along and converted his mother. There was, however, a rift in the family.

Fearing that her husband would not accept the new "fanatical" religion, and, being a headstrong and obstinate woman, Julia had herself and all her willing children baptized on the sly. This insult to his pride as head of the house offended Ezekiel so that he never would join the Mormons, although he followed his family and them to Illinois, where he died in 1848 after a beating by an anti-Mormon mob.

The Johnson brothers were close friends and associates of Joseph Smith all through Ohio, Missouri, and Illinois. Family and church records show that one of their sisters, Almera, became Joseph Smith's first plural wife in 1843.

JOEL, BENJAMIN, George and William Derby Johnson were all writers, business men and church leaders for years. Joel wrote nearly 1,000 songs, one of which, High On The Mountain Top, is a leading Mormon hymn still.

However, the most renowned of the five brothers was Joseph Ellis Johnson. Historical records of Iowa, Nebraska and Utah verify his own modest diary in outlining his achievements as a pioneer postmaster and merchant, also one of the most illustrious midwestern editors of the 1850s, as well as being a famous tractor-cultivist who wrote many tracts on gardening.

From his store at Crescent City, Ia., in 1858, Joseph Ellis Johnson sent the first train of merchandise—a caravan of four big wagons drawn by 32 oxen—to the new gold diggings on Cherry Creek, from which Denver has grown into a metropolis. On such solid achievements as these, as well as numbers, the Ezekiel Johnson clan is continuing on in family pride and glory.

Wallace, County Committee Endorse Highway Safety Plan

Strong support was developing here today for Assembly passage of a six-point highway safety plan originally prepared by the Governor's Traffic Safety Committee.

It will be the second attempt to win legislative approval for the program.

Pickaway County state representative Ed Wallace said he would vote for the program if it is put before the Assembly during the forthcoming session. Wallace declared such a program, "has been long overdue."

Additional approval has come from the Pickaway County Traffic Safety Committee. Committee Chairman Darrell Hatfield said the group "wholeheartedly" endorses the plan to cut the steadily climbing accident rate in the state.

THE SAFETY program, a consolidation of separate bills which had failed to win the legislators' approval during the last Assembly session, would require periodic inspection of all motor vehicles registered in Ohio, in addition to introducing a demerit system to rule chronic violators off the road.

Both Wallace and Hatfield agreed that lack of public interest which has hampered similar proposals in the past, also endangers the pending program. "Unfortunately," Hatfield said, "most people become aroused about this sort of thing only when an accident hits close to home."

'Lien' On Babies Opposed By Judge

DENISON, Tex. — The practice of holding something in lieu of payment has been going on for a long time, said Judge C. B. Carroll, but he told a woman who came into his office that she was carrying it a bit too far.

The woman told Judge Carroll she had been a baby sitter for a Denison couple and had not been fully paid for her services.

She said she had been holding the couple's two babies trying to get them to pay up. The judge told her to get the babies home to their mother before she had more to worry about than money owed her.

Bible Words To Live By

I PETER 3:15 — "Always be prepared to make a defense to any one who calls you to account for the hope that is in you, yet do it with gentleness and reverence." (RSV)

We need consciously to defend our faith against our own doubts as well as the doubts of others. Not by argumentation so much as by appreciation and insight. We need to utter forth our real selves; an existent fact.

Being alive proves so much. The wonder of a living being belongs to this universe making it a wonderful universe. Being a man proves so much. To feel and know we feel, to know and know we know, places a self-conscious personality, not an animal, in this creative universe.

To love proves so much. If only one man ever loved then this is a moral universe. We love, therefore everything matters. To pray proves so much. One moment of sensing of the Other who cares lays a purpose and order on the universe.

Jesus proves so much. Just by the life He lived He fixed the necessities of eternity. We know this.

THEY'RE GOING TO STICK A NEEDLE IN ME

Yes, Sonny, we do it all the time!

Mommie holds you in her lap. And that nice, friendly doctor gets the needle ready. Then... OUCH! And there's one less disease for you to worry about.

If only it were that easy to protect you from some of the other diseases that infest the world... the plagues that eat away man's moral and spiritual fibre.

But religion can't be injected with a needle!

So it requires wise parents, and Christian homes, and worshipping families, and vigorous churches to get you ready for a noble, happy life.

Better take it up Sunday with your folks: ISN'T IT TIME FOR ALL OF US TO GO TO CHURCH?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Bible Words To Live By

1 PETER 3:15 — "Always be prepared to make a defense to any one who calls you to account for the hope that is in you, yet do it with gentleness and reverence." (RSV)

We need consciously to defend our faith against our own doubts as well as the doubts of others. Not by argumentation so much as by appreciation and insight. We need to utter forth our real selves; an existent fact.

Being alive proves so much. The wonder of a living being belongs to this universe making it a wonderful universe. Being a man proves so much. To feel and know we feel, to know and know we know, places a self-conscious personality, not an animal, in this creative universe.

To love proves so much. If only one man ever loved then this is a moral universe. We love, therefore everything matters. To pray proves so much. One moment of sensing of the Other who cares lays a purpose and order on the universe.

Jesus proves so much. Just by the life He lived He fixed the necessities of eternity. We know this.

THEY'RE GOING TO STICK A NEEDLE IN ME

Yes, Sonny, we do it all the time!

Mommie holds you in her lap. And that nice, friendly doctor gets the needle ready. Then... OUCH! And there's one less disease for you to worry about.

If only it were that easy to protect you from some of the other diseases that infest the world... the plagues that eat away man's moral and spiritual fibre.

But religion can't be injected with a needle!

So it requires wise parents, and Christian homes, and worshipping families, and vigorous churches to get you ready for a noble, happy life.

Better take it up Sunday with your folks: ISN'T IT TIME FOR ALL OF US TO GO TO CHURCH?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

EMBARRASSING QUESTIONS

A WARSAW newspaper, Proprost, asks boldly if Marxism is in its twilight zone. It answers the question indirectly by stating that Poland is beset by mass unemployment, huge land waste, food and housing shortages and failure to make any agricultural progress for 10 years.

Reorganization and an effort to achieve efficiency of production could result in huge increases of output. But the paper thinks the excessively centralized and bureaucratic system of management is incapable of improving the national economy.

This utterance is significant, of course, because it not only violates the normally slavish subscription of the press to the state but also because Proprost is a student newspaper.

The communists do quite well when they keep the young coming along in devotion to their system. They can handle the middle-aged and the oldsters through terrorism. But when the youngsters begin to ask questions, the reds truly may be in the twilight zone.

How are they going to maintain the integrity of the state, including military and police forces, if the younger generation from which such forces are drawn begins to doubt the all-seeing wisdom of the heads of state?

NEHRU'S TROUBLES

WHATEVER Prime Minister Nehru was able to take away from his conference with President Eisenhower was welcomed by the head of a state that is in increasing trouble.

Inflation has India in its grip, its foreign exchange holdings have declined this year by $400 million, which was much more than had been anticipated. Poor crops threaten famine. The Suez crisis lessens India's commerce and makes it costlier. His five-year plan, designed to improve India industrially and agriculturally, is lagging.

Moreover, the Asian nations which looked to Nehru as leader are defecting. Only 12 of them followed Nehru in abstaining from the UN resolution denouncing Russian arbitrariness in Hungary, while 13 of them voted for the resolution.

Nehru has become hopelessly involved with Red China and seems to have no desire to extricate himself from that dilemma.

Nehru may have returned to New Delhi with some concessions that will strengthen him with his unhappy people. His fawning attitude toward communism has not made any friends for him among the American people.

SAAR GERMAN AGAIN

THE SAAR — tiny in size but mighty in political importance—has become German land once again. What the French vowed would never be permitted to happen again has happened.

This followed an overwhelming vote of the predominantly German-descended citizens of this 990-square-mile territory. The Saar has been held by France since the end of World War II.

The Saar, of course, is of major strategic importance because of its rich coal deposits. France has felt she needed these to go with her iron mines in northeastern France.

Because the Saar is important to the economies of both Germany and France, part of the present agreement gives France rights to one-third of the Saar coal indefinitely. And France will maintain her customs and currency control for three more years.

Thus German citizens of the Saar will be paid in French francs, will be assessed import duties on any German goods they buy, and will be subjected to a French customs check when returning to the Saar from elsewhere in Germany. This "Alice in Wonderland" arrangement is designed to make the transfer less painful.

College athletic departments are reported to be seeking to appear as "pure as the driven snow." What's that?

It seems to be a law of traffic that the motorist who speeds by will be waiting at the next signal light.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

During the Roosevelt era, the income tax was used not to provide the government with sufficient funds to do its business but as a social mechanism for the redistribution of wealth.

It was the Robin Hood sociology, namely, that it sought to take from the rich and give to the poor, and it used as its slogan "One-Third of the Nation," which, while it was exaggerated, did arouse in many of the rich a guilt complex which either sent them to the Communist Party and fellow-traveller organizations or caused them to engage the services of such a public relations adviser as Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, to tell them how to be good and become popular.

The rich, however, grew richer because those who possessed inherited wealth or who had accumulated wealth soon learned how to take advantage of the various laws passed by the New Deal and they did very well indeed. The worker received subsidies in various forms as did the farmer and the industrialist. The principal sufferers of the Rooseveltian social revolution were middle-class persons who soon found themselves ground down, unless they were entertainers which gave them special advantages.

In the Eisenhower Administration, the Income Tax is being used to fight inflation. The theory is that the less money remaining in the possession of the individual, the less will be his demand for goods and services and therefore there will be no shortage of goods and services and therefore no inflation.

This theory has been developed during a period of excessive agricultural and industrial production when we are scouring the Earth to find willing takers of our surpluses and when many countries are setting up resistances to our gifts because, it is argued, such gifts amount to dumping and set up inflationary trends in those countries.

Simultaneously, it is made clear that there is to be no reduction in the Federal income tax so that the budget may remain in balance, while at the same time government spending is increasing which puts the budget out of balance.

Also many of the loopholes in the income tax laws are to be tightened so that no one can get away with anything, a rule that could dry up the reservoirs of American capital and make it advantageous for foreign capital to buy up American industries and for American companies to establish foreign corporations to do as much of their business as possible.

The paradoxical situation indicates that what is most necessary is an over-all fiscal policy for the United States, one that is based not on the socialist theory of the redistribution of wealth or the assumption that inflation is a greater evil than poverty but rather on the basis that it must be made possible for individual Americans to save a fair portion of their earnings as a privately-owned and managed estate.

This doctrine of the private ownership of wealth is the basis of American capitalism and if it goes by the board because of excessive taxation brutally collected, the time could come, and shortly, when the ownership of capital funds will be limited to life insurance companies, labor union welfare funds, foundations, and a few rich men whose inherited wealth has not been dissipated by inheritance taxes.

Thus, the operations of the tax laws are serving to concentrate wealth beyond anything that is tolerable in a free society. This concentration of wealth and the limitation upon opportunity by excessive taxation are resulting in social changes which could become intolerable to most of the American people when they become conscious of the very great evil of the arrangement.

Congress could well afford to make such an over-all study. Perhaps little can be done about it at a time when we have undertaken not only to limit the imperialism of Soviet Russia but to correct the international morality of our allies.

These are costly enterprises, but the American people need to know why our national debt increases while the national indebtedness of nations we aid decreases; they need to know why so many years after World War II is over, we still pay such abnormally high taxes.

The withdrawal of Great Britain and France from the Suez Canal by order of the United States may seem to be great stuff by some, but when we shoulder the cost of that operation in terms of income taxes, it will not be so pleasant.

If inflation continues at its rate of the last decade, the federal debt of $275 billion may in time seem no bigger than the mortgage on the family car.

SYNOPSIS

Lieutenant Chad "Slick" Slick, a Civil War veteran, is used when he is ordered from St. Louis to establish an Army Post in hostile Dakota Territory. For he must leave his fiancée, Elizabeth Tipton, daughter of General Tipton, and postpone their marriage for at least a year. At a farewell party in his honor, Chad warns Alvin Stiner, a wealthy trader and his rival for Elizabeth, to respect their engagement or he will kill him when he returns.

CHAPTER 2

THE DINNER was everything General Tipton could have desired. It was even more to Chad. Candlelight on the silver, sparkling wine, the browned chicken, the glass epergne with its fruit in the center of the table: all of it added up to an intangible something that Chad could cherish in memory through the hard months that lay ahead. Tomorrow would be another story.

Chad ate slowly, glancing often at Elizabeth, who sat beside him. From time to time, she reached down to adjust her napkin so that their hands might touch momentarily.

Myra Grunwald continually threw the conversation toward Stiner, questioning him about his plans for extending his trade in the direction of Montana. She was plain to read, too plain, and Chad wondered what had gone on between them.

She was about thirty-five, Chad thought, very close to Stiner's age. There were traces of an earlier beauty about her which showed through the worn veneer of heavy social life that Army society had fastened upon her. She was known as a flirt and an incurable gossip.

Major Grunwald was chubby and red-faced. Now he sat before his dinner, studying it with obvious relish, making no secret of his love for food and drink.

General Tipton watched, amused. He had been in the Army many years and had known many Myras. He did not condone her conduct, but he merely understood it. Grunwald was an excellent supply officer, steady and reliable, if somewhat unimaginative.

Suddenly Myra turned to Chad. "Isn't your new post to be on the Yellowstone?"

He shook his head. "On the Missouri, just below its junction with the Yellowstone. Not far from Fort Blaine."

Grunwald looked up from his third plateful. "Randall know just where yet?"

© 1956, Bourey & Curl, Inc., publishers of the new novel. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

He'll determine the site when we get up there," Chad answered. "I understand we'll locate somewhere near the confluence of the two rivers."

"Hope it's a good one," the major grunted. "Right smack in the heart of the Sioux buffalo country."

"But they've had a fort up there for years, dear," Myra said.

"Fort Blaine's a trading post," Stiner said. "The Indians never bothered it. But an Army post—well, it won't be so popular."

Chad said nothing. Stiner was right about an Army post not being popular with the Sioux. The northern plains tribes had been relatively quiet during the war, but now with the westward tide of emigrants threatening to overrun the land, there would be resistance. And the Army would be hard pressed to meet it.

"You won't go up there until this is settled, will you, Alvin?" Myra asked.

There was a moment of tension. Her tone had shown too much concern for a man who should mean nothing to her, but Major Grunwald was engrossed in lighting a twisted black cheroot and his scowl was directed only at the candle which flickered out as he breathed too heavily during the operation.

You fool, Chad thought. You know and you're ignoring it. You'll take half a woman and be satisfied because you're afraid you'll lose the half that still belongs to you.

"I have no immediate plans for going up the river," Stiner said. "I'll wait for the Army to kill off the Sioux."

His fury touched into flame again by Grunwald's studied indifference, Chad said, "There is a way to handle it if the Army fails, Myra. He can sell the Indians whisky and they can kill each other off. That would do the job and pay a profit to boot."

Stiner put his hands on the table; his eyes, hard and brittle, came to Chad's face. General Tipton cleared his throat noisily. "If you gentlemen would care to join me, we'll have some liquor."

Elizabeth and Myra rose, excused themselves, and retired to the parlor, Elizabeth turning her head to throw an annoyed glance at Chad.

"Here, Chad," General Tipton said, "pass the cigars around."

While I get the liquor glasses down."

When the general had served the liquor, he raised his glass, glancing first at Stiner, then at Chad. He said, "Here's to the new post, wherever it may be."

"To the new post," the others echoed, and drank.

Tipton cleared his throat, hesitated, and then said, "Colonel Randall is a better man than many I could name."

"Yes, sir," Chad said. "I'm sure of that."

He understood the remark. Randall had no reputation for leadership and his chief failing was his weakness for drink; his greatest strength stemmed from his beautiful Spanish wife, Isabella. The colonel would do, Chad thought, if nothing unusual confronted them militarily.

"You will go directly from Jefferson barracks to Fort Blaine?" Stiner asked.

Chad nodded. "We'll travel up the Missouri on the Molly McClain. The colonel will watch for the location he wants."

"You'll be on the river about two months," Stiner said.

"About that, they tell me," Chad agreed.

The talk lagged, and presently the general said, "Shall we join the ladies?"

They filed into the parlor, Chad and Stiner dropping into plush chairs on either side of Elizabeth. Grunwald pulled an enormous gold watch from his pocket and studied it solemnly.

He lifted his gaze to Myra. "My dear, I have to be at the office early in the morning. I think we had better run along."

"All right, Otto, if you feel we must." Then, suddenly, as if she had thought of it quite by chance, Myra turned to Stiner. "We'll be glad to drop you off at your rooms, Alvin. We're going right by them, you know."

"That's very kind of you," Stiner rose, obviously annoyed.

Chad thought savagely. Why doesn't that stupid Grunwald tell Stiner where he can go?

But Grunwald made no objection, a fixed smile clinging to his lips, his heavy face almost pathetic.

After the Grunwalds and Stiner had left, the general yawned and winked at Chad. "The old man's beginning to feel his years. Good night, Chad."

"Good night, general," Chad said.

Poison Ivy Victims Need Injections Now

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IT'S time to start thinking about poison ivy. No kidding. If you are one of those unfortunate persons who suffers each year with a case of poison ivy—maybe a prolonged case—and have little hope of avoiding the offending weed this year, better ask your doctor about desensitization shots now. Weekly shots of an extract are often very helpful for those with Rhus Dermatitis.

Allergic substances from the Rhus plant group, incidentally, are identical whether they are from ivy, oak or sumac. Yet persons suffering from acute attacks of poison ivy dermatitis are usually sensitive to that plant alone.

With persons developing chronic weed dermatitis, however, this is not the case.

The weekly injections should begin in January, February or March at the latest. For best results, they should be continued throughout the summer.

The initial dose is a small one, only 0.02 cc. Unless a reaction occurs, the subsequent doses are progressively doubled.

If there is a reaction, it's usually advisable to repeat the previous dose. Possible reactions include local inflammation, muscle pain, fever, nausea and vomiting.

It's up to a doctor, of course, to determine whether your allergy is actually due to the Rhus plants or some other weed. Generally this is accomplished through a "patch" test, a specialized procedure which should be performed only by an experienced person.

Once the sensitizing agent has been determined, much of the battle has been won. Simply to avoid the offending plant or weed may be the solution.

If this is impossible, the answer in most cases is desensitization. And for those of you with poison ivy dermatitis, the time for those desensitization injections is here.

EMBARRASSING QUESTIONS

A WARSAW newspaper, Propostu, asks boldly if Marxism is in its twilight zone. It answers the question indirectly by stating that Poland is beset by mass unemployment, huge land waste, food and housing shortages and failure to make any agricultural progress for 10 years.

Reorganization and an effort to achieve efficiency of production could result in huge increases of output. But the paper thinks the excessively centralized and bureaucratic system of management is incapable of improving the national economy.

This utterance is significant, of course, because it not only violates the normally slavish subscription of the press to the state but also because Propostu is a student newspaper.

The communists do quite well when they keep the young coming along in devotion to their system. They can handle the mid-dead and the oldsters through terrorism. But when the youngsters begin to ask questions, the reds truly may be in the twilight zone.

How are they going to maintain the integrity of the state, including military and police forces, if the younger generation from which such forces are drawn begins to doubt the all-seeing wisdom of the heads of state?

NEHRU'S TROUBLES

WHATEVER Prime Minister Nehru was able to take away from his conference with President Eisenhower was welcomed by the head of a state that is in increasing trouble.

Inflation has India in its grip, its foreign exchange holdings have declined this year by $400 million, which was much more than had been anticipated. Poor crops threaten famine. The Suez crisis lessens India's commerce and makes it costlier. His five-year plan, designed to improve India industrially and agriculturally, is lagging.

Moreover, the Asian nations which looked to Nehru as leader are defecting. Only 12 of them followed Nehru in abstaining from the UN resolution denouncing Russian arbitrariness in Hungary, while 13 of them voted for the resolution.

Nehru has become hopelessly involved with Red China and seems to have no desire to extricate himself from that dilemma.

Nehru may have returned to New Delhi with some concessions that will strengthen him with his unhappy people. His fawning attitude toward communism has not made any friends for him among the American people.

SAAR GERMAN AGAIN

THE SAAR — tiny in size but mighty in political importance—has become German land once again. What the French vowed would never be permitted to happen again has happened.

This followed an overwhelming vote of the predominantly German-descended citizens of this 990-square-mile territory. The Saar has been held by France since the end of World War II.

The Saar, of course, is of major strategic importance because of its rich coal deposits. France has felt she needed these to go with her iron mines in northeastern France.

Because the Saar is important to the economies of both Germany and France, part of the present agreement gives France rights to one-third of the Saar coal indefinitely. And France will maintain her customs and currency control for three more years.

Thus German citizens of the Saar will be paid in French francs, will be assessed import duties on any German goods they buy, and will be subjected to a French customs check when returning to the Saar from elsewhere in Germany. This "Alice in Wonderland" arrangement is designed to make the transfer less painful.

College athletic departments are reported to be seeking to appear as 'pure as the driven snow.' What's that?

These Days

During the Roosevelt era, the income tax was used not to provide the government with sufficient funds to do its business but as a social mechanism for the redistribution of wealth.

It was the Robin Hood sociology, namely, that it sought to take from the rich and give to the poor, and it used as its slogan "One-Third of the Nation," which, while it was exaggerated, did arouse in many of the rich a guilt complex which either sent them to the Communist Party and fellow-traveler organizations or caused them to engage the services of such a public relations adviser as Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, to tell them how to be good and become popular.

The rich, however, grew richer because those who possessed inherited wealth or who had accumulated wealth soon learned how to take advantage of the various laws passed by the New Deal and they did very well indeed. The worker received subsidies in various forms as did the farmer and the industrialist. The principal sufferers of the Rooseveltian social revolution were middle-class persons who soon found themselves ground down, unless they were entertainers which gave them special advantages.

In the Eisenhower Administration, the Income Tax is being used to fight inflation. The theory is that the less money remaining in the possession of the individual, the less will be his demand for goods and services and therefore there will be no shortage of goods and services and therefore no inflation.

This theory has been developed during a period of excessive agricultural and industrial production when we are scouring the Earth to find willing takers of our surpluses and when many countries are setting up resistances to our gifts because, it is argued, such gifts amount to dumping and set up inflationary trends in those countries.

Simultaneously, it is made clear that there is to be no reduction in the Federal income tax so that the budget may remain in balance, while at the same time government spending is increasing which puts the budget out of balance.

Also many of the loopholes in the income tax laws are to be tightened so that no one can get away with anything, a rule that could dry up the reservoirs of American capital and make it advantageous for foreign capital to buy up American industries and for American companies to establish foreign corporations to do as much of their business as possible.

The paradoxical situation indicates that what is most necessary is an over-all fiscal policy for the United States, one that is based not on the socialist theory of the redistribution of wealth or the assumption that inflation is a greater evil than poverty but rather on the basis that it must be made possible for individual Americans to save a fair portion of their earnings as a privately-owned and managed estate.

This doctrine of the private ownership of wealth is the basis of American capitalism and if it goes by the board because of excessive taxation brutally collected, the time could come, and shortly, when the ownership of capital funds will be limited to life insurance companies, labor union welfare funds, foundations, and a few rich men whose inherited wealth has not been dissipated by inheritance taxes.

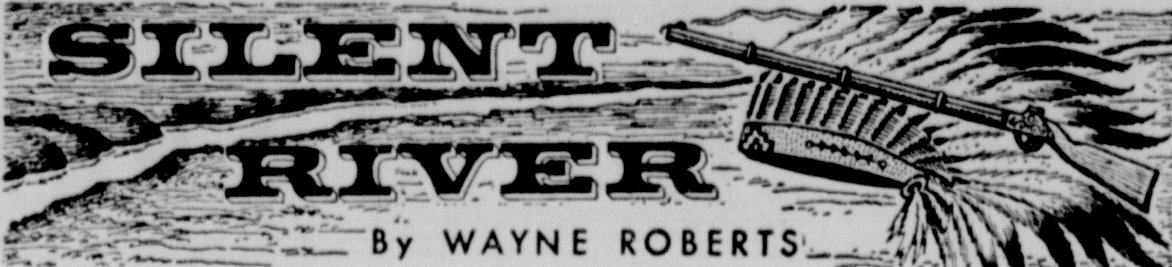

Thus, the operations of the tax laws are serving to concentrate wealth beyond anything that is tolerable in a free society. This concentration of wealth and the limitation upon opportunity by excessive taxation are resulting in social changes which could become intolerable to most of the American people when they become conscious of the very great evil of the arrangement.

Congress could well afford to make such an over-all study. Perhaps little can be done about it at a time when we have undertaken not only to limit the imperialism of Soviet Russia but to correct the international morality of our allies.

These are costly enterprises, but the American people need to know why our national debt increases while the national indebtedness of nations we aid decreases; they need to know why so many years after World War II is over, we still pay such abnormally high taxes.

The withdrawal of Great Britain and France from the Suez Canal by order of the United States may seem to be great stuff by some, but when we shoulder the cost of that operation in terms of income taxes, it will not be so pleasant.

If inflation continues at its rate of the last decade, the federal debt of $275 billion may in time seem no bigger than the mortgage on the family car.

SYNOPSIS

Lieutenant Chad Endicott, a Civil War veteran, is irked when he is ordered from St. Louis to establish an Army Post in hostile Dakota Territory. For he must leave his fiancée, Elizabeth Tipton, daughter of General Tipton, and postpone their marriage for at least a year. At a farewell party in his honor, Chad warns Alvin Stiner, a wealthy trader and his rival for Elizabeth, to respect their engagement or he will kill him when he returns.

CHAPTER 2

THE DINNER was everything General Tipton could have desired. It was even more to Chad. Candlelight on the silver, sparkling wine, the browned chicken, the glass epergne with its fruit in the center of the table, all of it added up to an intangible something that Chad could cherish in memory through the hard months that lay ahead. Tomorrow would be another story.

Chad ate slowly, glancing often at Elizabeth, who sat beside him. From time to time, she reached down to adjust her napkin so that their hands might touch momentarily.

Myra Grunwald continually threw the conversation toward Stiner, questioning him about his plans for extending his trade in the direction of Montana. She was plain to read, too plain, and Chad wondered what had gone on between them.

She was about thirty-five, Chad thought, very close to Stiner's age. There were traces of an earlier beauty about her which showed through the worn veneer of heavy social life that Army society had fastened upon her. She was known as a flirt and an incurable gossip.

Major Grunwald was chubby and red-faced. Now he sat before his dinner, studying it with obvious relish, making no secret of his love for food and drink.

General Tipton watched, amused. He had been in the Army many years and had known many Myras. He did not condone her conduct; he merely understood it. Grunwald was an excellent supply officer, steady and reliable, if somewhat unimaginative.

Suddenly Myra turned to Chad. "Isn't your new post to be on the Yellowstone?"

He shook his head. "On the Missouri, just below its junction with the Yellowstone. Not far from Fort Blaine."

Grunwald looked up from his third plate. "Randall know just where yet?"

"He'll determine the site when we get up there," Chad answered. "I understand we'll locate somewhere near the confluence of the two rivers."

"Hope it's a good one," the major grunted. "Right smack in the heart of the Sioux buffalo country."

"But they've had a fort up there for years, dear," Myra said. "Fort Blaine's a trading post," Stiner said. "The Indians never bothered it. But an Army post—well, it won't be so popular."

Chad said nothing. Stiner was right about an Army post not being popular with the Sioux. The northern plains tribes had been relatively quiet during the war, but now with the westward tide of emigrants threatening to overrun the land, there would be resistance. And the Army would be hard pressed to meet it.

"You won't go up there until this is settled, will you, Alvin?" Myra asked.

There was a moment of tension. Her tone had shown too much concern for a man who should mean nothing to her, but Major Grunwald was engrossed in lighting a twisted black cheroot and his scowl was directed only at the candle which flickered out as he breathed too heavily during the operation.

You fool, Chad thought. You know and you're ignoring it. You'll take half a woman and be satisfied because you're afraid you'll lose the half that still belongs to you.

His fury touched into flame again by Grunwald's studied indifference, Chad said, "There is a way to handle it if the Army fails, Myra. He can sell the Indians whiskey and they can kill each other off. That would do the job and pay a profit to boot."

Stiner put his hands on the table; his eyes, hard and brittle, came to Chad's face. General Tipton cleared his throat noisily. "If you gentlemen would care to join me, we'll have some liquor."

Elizabeth and Myra rose, excused themselves, and retired to the parlor, Elizabeth turning her head to throw an annoyed glance at Chad.

"Here, Chad," General Tipton said, "pass the cigars around."

A contribution was made to an Appeal for Aid and a contribution had been made to the March of Dimes at a previous meeting.

Miss Anderson, lecturer, presented the following program: Mrs. Porter, Grange Chaplain, gave the "Thought for Today, New Year's Resolutions"; the lecturer then gave an informative demonstration on entering and leaving the Grange Hall while the meeting is in session.

The highlight of the program was the New Year Candlelight Dedication Service with all members taking part.

Speaking parts were taken by: Master, Harold Furniss; Chaplain, Mrs. Porter; Ceres, Miss Barbara Storer; Pomona, Miss Grace Ellen Anderson; Flora, Miss Margaret Reid; Steward, Carl Dudson; New Year, Miss Florence Long; Overseer, Kenneth Reid; and Lecturer, Miss Anderson.

The Master carrying a short, lighted candle, representing the Light of Fraternity, was searching for a replenishing light so that the warmth of Fraternal Fellowship might be carried on to brighter and greater deeds of usefulness.

None of the stations approached were able to give this needed light until the New Year entered.

The New Year offered twelve glorious months, rains, sunshine, days for work and rest, nights for slumber—all from the hand of God. As each member lighted a candle and circled the altar, the lecturer asked each one to rededicate himself and his labors to the principles of the Patrons of Husbandry.

After the Master gave the Grange obligation, the chaplain closed the Service with a well-known poem.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. James Wills, Mrs. David Haller, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Wills, Don Ray Wills, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Dunkle and Oscar List. Mr. and Mrs. Bidwell will present the program theme, "Progress by Design" at the next meeting, February 12.

Fine Fur Accents Popular Item In Ladies' Wardrobes

Furs, always a popular item in any lady's wardrobe, have become even more important this year because the top designers are using them not only as coats but as stoles and trims. For the first time in several decades, there is a decided trend using furs as collars and cuffs on evening and daytime coats and suits.

Reminiscent of the twenties in feeling, though it has a most modern air, is a delighted vanilla silk ensemble. Shown in the above picture, the three-quarter coat is very narrow in silhouette, with a tailored cardigan collar and a slender matching skirt. Elegance is achieved with the voluminous fox fur cuffs.

Stoles, of course, are always a rich note in any costume. A glamorous blue fox stole is cleverly manipulated in tiers so that it can be worn in many different and fascinating ways. Perfect for wear with evening clothes, it is just as appropriate with a coat or suit.

All-Pro Game To Be Finale For Tobin Rote

Green Bay Quarterback Says He's Going Back To Home In Texas

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Quarterback Tobin Rote of the Green Bay Packers, one of the most underrated players in the National Football League, bids goodbye to the sport tomorrow when he plays for the West against the East in the annual Pro-Bowl game in Memorial Coliseum.

"I've got a head coach down in Texas and she says she's not going to chase back and forth to Green Bay any more. So I'm going to stay with her."

So said the 6-foot-2, 205-pound Texan who led Rice Institute to two Southwest Conference championships and for seven years has been one of the finest field generals in pro football.

The "head coach" is Mrs. Rote, mother of their three youngsters. The family lives in Bellaire, near Houston, where the 28-year-old Tobin has an executive position with the Herrin Transportation Co.

"Right now I don't have too many regrets about leaving football," Rote commented, "but maybe that's because this is the end of a long season and I'm a little tired. I love football, though."

Rote, Ed Brown of the Chicago Bears and Bobby Layne of Detroit will alternate at quarterback for the West, certainly an imposing combination.

Rote bowls out with an impressive record. He passed for 2,203 yards in 1956, more than any other NFL quarterback, and he holds most of the all-time Packer records, which is something for a team forever famous for its aerial attack.

The handsome Texan admitted he and the West squad encounter a mighty challenge from the East in the Pro-Bowl. He said quarterback Charlie Conerly of the champion New York Giants, such running backs as Ollie Matson of the Chicago Cardinals and Frank Gifford of the Giants, plus a tremendous defensive team "really will be tough to beat."

The game will not be televised regionally or nationally.

Loud Blast At Pro Baseball Comes Out Of NCAA Parley

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A couple of new laws tightening reins on recruiting and financial aid to athletes and a loud blast at professional baseball by college coaches provided the only fireworks of the 51st NCAA convention.

The week-long meet ending today with a routine closed-door session of the policy-making council, was the most peaceful in more than ten years.

The assembly at its final session Friday amended its financial aid rule by putting a lid on the amount of money a student athlete can receive during a school term. Side jobs and athletic scholarships are to be handled on one basis. If an athlete has a job in addition to a scholarship he can't receive more than the limits of the scholarship, which includes, room, board, tuition, fees and a $15 monthly laundry allowance.

The other new rule permits col-

Walnut Edges Saltcreek In Overtime Fray

Walnut Township's cage Tigers were forced to go the limit Friday night as they downed Saltcreek, 77 to 75, in an overtime sudden-death tilt.

The thrilling contest was played at Saltcreek's new gym. At the end of regulation play the score was deadlocked, 73 to 73. As the three-minute overtime buzzer sounded, the score was again tied 75-75. A quick basket by Walnut in the sudden-death episode earned the decision for the Tigers.

Finding themselves behind, 63 to 46, as the third period ended, the Warriors staged a valiant rally to even things up when the last stanza ended.

Fighting desperately to pull an upset, the Saltcreek men matched Walnut with two points in the overtime. However, Walnut managed to sink the first basket in the sudden death.

WALNUT'S scoring was paced by four men who collected 12 or more points. Smith was high for the evening with 25. Harber, Edwards and Stone each had 12.

Van Fossen, with 22 tallies, and Valentine, with 20, led the Warriors' attack.

Saltcreek won the reserve tilt, 36 to 34. Saltcreek also won the junior high game, 45 to 39.

Trojans Upset Scioto Cagers Friday Night

Darby's Trojans upset the league-leading Scioto Buffaloes, 55 to 47, Friday night at Commercial Point.

The Trojans raced to a 22-11 advantage by the end of the first period and increased that margin to lead 34-19 at half-time.

Scioto staged a desperate rally to reduce the Darby lead to 45-37 at the end of the third quarter.

Both teams played on fairly even terms for the remainder of the game, with Darby's early margin proving sufficient for the decision.

NANCE, Guthrie and Musselman were rebounding stars for Darby. Drummond was the play maker for the Trojans, while Johnson consistently opened-up the Scioto defense by stripping the net from far out.

Guthrie of Darby earned scoring honors for the evening with 17 points on 6 field goals and 5 foul tosses. Teammates Musselman and Johnson were close behind with 12 points each.

Jim Stoer lead Scioto scoring with 16 counters followed by Knapp with 12 points.

Darby also won the reserve game, 52 to 19.

champion from Dallas, fired a six-under-par 66 Friday over the relatively sheltered Monterey Peninsula Country Club links.

For this $15,000 national amateur event, half the field of 276 played the opening round over with the tougher Cypress Point layout. Each has par 72, but of Friday's 30 par breakers, only two did it at Cypress.

Professional baseball, criticized by the coaches through Ethan Allen of Yale earlier in the week, was charged again with raiding campuses and exploiting the college game.

Everett D. Barnes, Colgate athletic director, told the convention there is no sentiment on the part of professional baseball to help college baseball.

"The colleges," Barnes said, "have struggled unsuccessfully for eleven years to work out a friendly pact with the majors and minors."

The majors recently junked their rule of not signing baseball players after they reached their sophomore year. The minors had never agreed to such a restriction.

Iowa Grid Coach Denies Reports

CHICAGO (AP) — Iowa football coach Forest Evashevski Friday denied reports he has been offered the University of California coaching job and said "I like the Midwest and plan to remain here."

The former Michigan blocking star was in Chicago narrating films of Iowa's 35-19 Rose Bowl victory over Oregon State.

Evashevski admitted conferring with California representatives Thursday in St. Louis.

"We talked about a lot of things," he said, "but no job offer was made."

Larsen's Friends Rally With Help

NEW YORK (AP) — Art Larsen's tennis buddies didn't forget him when he needed them.

The happy-go-lucky little blond was in a serious motorbike accident last November. It left him partially paralyzed and physicians said he was lucky to be alive. It cost him $20,800.

Friday night, they held a benefit for him at the 7th Regiment Armory here. More than 3,000 spectators jammed into the armory. When they counted the money, they had $13,000 in the till. That made a total of about $19,000 in the kitty for Larsen. The money still is pouring in.

Even an offer said to involve a total outlay of $100,000 by the Giants failed to persuade the 37-year-old Negro star to change his mind about retiring.

Ohio College Teams Win Only At Home

COLUMBUS (AP) — It was one of those "we should have stayed home" nights for Ohio college basketball teams. Those that played at home last night won. Those that didn't, lost.

The University of Cincinnati, which had little difficulty in beating Duquesne a week ago at home, lost a return match in Pittsburgh, 60-59.

The Dukes got their revenge win the hard way. Cincinnati went ahead twice in the final 60 seconds, but Duquesne's Red Ryan, a sophomore guard, sank a jump shot with one second left to beat the Ohioans.

In Columbus, Bliss College's Bookkeepers had an easy time on their home court, handing Cincinnati Bible College its fourth loss, 90-44. Bliss led all the way in scoring its seventh victory.

Wilmington's Quakers followed the same formula at Wilmington, jumping to a quick lead and stretching it to a 95-59 win over

Findlay in a Mid-Ohio League game.

The University of Akron, trailing at halftime, rallied on the home floor to defeat Kent State University, 89-84. It was the seventh loss in nine games for Kent State, and Akron's 10th win in 13.

In Buffalo, N. Y., Buffalo State Teachers downed Fenn of Cleveland, 90-60.

Madison Mills Edge Wildcats In Overtime

Madison Mills of Fayette county won an overtime game over the Jackson Wildcats, 60 to 57, Friday night at Jackson.

With the score tied 26-26 at the end of the first half, Jackson moved ahead to lead, 45 to 39, as the third quarter ended.

Madison Mills scored 15 points compared to 9 for Jackson to deadlock the game as the final buzzer sounded.

In the three-minute overtime period, Madison Mills managed to score six points while holding the Wildcats to 3.

MADISON Mills scoring was well-balanced as five players hit for double figures. Mercer led with 14, followed by McClary with 12. Delay and Caudill collect 11 each, and Suyers had 10.

Ernie Milburn paced Jackson by scoring 24 points.

Madison Mills won the reserve contest, 36 to 23.

Walnut Edges Saltcreek In Overtime Fray

Walnut Township's cage Tigers were forced to go the limit Friday night as they downed Saltcreek, 77 to 75, in an overtime sudden-death tilt.

The thrilling contest was played at Saltcreek's new gym. At the end of regulation play the score was deadlocked, 73 to 73. As the three-minute overtime buzzer sounded, the score was again tied 75-75. A quick basket by Walnut in the sudden-death episode earned the decision for the Tigers.

Finding themselves behind, 63 to 46, as the third period ended, the Warriors staged a valiant rally to even things up when the last stanza ended.

Fighting desperately to pull an upset, the Saltcreek men matched Walnut with two points in the overtime. However, Walnut managed to sink the first basket in the sudden death.

WALNUT'S scoring was paced by four men who collected 12 or more points. Smith was high for the evening with 25. Harber, Edwards and Stone each had 12. Van Fossen, with 22 tallies, and Valentine, with 20, led the Warriors' attack.

Saltcreek won the reserve tilt, 36 to 34. Saltcreek also won the junior high game, 45 to 39.

Trojans Upset Scioto Cagers Friday Night

Darby's Trojans upset the league-leading Scioto Buffaloes, 55 to 47, Friday night at Commercial Point.

The Trojans raced to a 22-11 advantage by the end of the first period and increased that margin to lead 34-19 at half-time. Scioto staged a desperate rally to reduce the Darby lead to 45-37 at the end of the third quarter.

Both teams played on fairly even terms for the remainder of the game, with Darby's early margin proving sufficient for the decision.

NANCE, Guthrie and Musselman were rebounding stars for Darby. Drummond was the play maker for the Trojans, while Johnson consistently opened-up the Scioto defense by stripping the net from far out.

Guthrie of Darby earned scoring honors for the evening with 17 points on 6 field goals and 5 foul tosses. Teammates Musselman and Johnson were close behind with 12 points each.

Jim Stoer lead Scioto scoring with 16 counters followed by Knapp with 12 points.

Loud Blast At Pro Baseball Comes Out Of NCAA Parley

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A couple of new laws tightening reins on recruiting and financial aid to athletes and a loud blast at professional baseball by college coaches provided the only fireworks of the 51st NCAA convention.

The week-long meet ending today with a routine closed-door session of the policy-making council, was the most peaceful in more than ten years.

The assembly at its final session Friday amended its financial aid rule by putting a lid on the amount of money a student athlete can receive during a school term. Side jobs and athletic scholarships are to be handled on one basis. If an athlete has a job in addition to a scholarship he can't receive more than the limits of the scholarship, which includes, room, board, tuition, fees and a $15 monthly laundry allowance.

The other new rule permits colleges to pay the cost of transportation for a prospective athlete to make one visit to a school. It prohibits alumni and booster club groups from bringing in the prospects.

Professional baseball, criticized by the coaches through Ethan Allen of Yale earlier in the week, was charged again with raiding campuses and exploiting the college game.

Everett D. Barnes, Colgate athletic director, told the convention "there is no sentiment on the part of professional baseball to help college baseball."

"The colleges," Barnes said, "have struggled unsuccessfully for eleven years to work out a friendly pact with the majors and minors."

The majors recently junked their rule of not signing baseball players after they reached their sophomore year. The minors had never agreed to such a restriction.

Iowa Grid Coach Denies Reports

CHICAGO (AP) — Iowa football coach Forest Evashevski Friday denied reports he has been offered the University of California coaching job and said "I like the Midwest and plan to remain here."

The former Michigan blocking star was in Chicago narrating films of Iowa's 35-19 Rose Bowl victory over Oregon State.

Evashevski admitted conferring with California representatives Thursday in St. Louis.

"We talked about a lot of things," he said, "but no job offer was made."

Larsen's Friends Rally With Help

NEW YORK (AP) — Art Larsen's tennis buddies didn't forget him when he needed them.

The happy-go-lucky little blond was in a serious motorbike accident last November. It left him partially paralyzed and physicians said he was lucky to be alive. It cost him $20,800.

Friday night, they held a benefit for him at the 7th Regiment Armory here. More than 3,000 spectators jammed into the armory. When they counted the money, they had $13,000 in the till. That made a total of about $19,000 in the kitty for Larsen. The money still is pouring in.

night in a phone call to an official of the New York Giants, who had obtained him in a trade with Brooklyn in December.

Even an offer said to involve a total outlay of $100,000 by the Giants failed to persuade the 37-year-old Negro star to change his mind about retiring.

Ohio College Teams Win Only At Home

COLUMBUS (AP) — It was one of those "we should have stayed home" nights for Ohio college basketball teams. Those that played at home last night won. Those that didn't, lost.

The University of Cincinnati, which had little difficulty in beating Duquesne a week ago at home, lost a return match in Pittsburgh, 60-59.

The Dukes got their revenge win the hard way. Cincinnati went ahead twice in the final 60 seconds, but Duquesne's Red Ryan, a sophomore guard, sank a jump shot with one second left to beat the Ohioans.

In Columbus, Bliss College's Bookkeepers had an easy time on their home court, handing Cincinnati Bible College its fourth loss, 90-44. Bliss led all the way in scoring its seventh victory.

Wilmington's Quakers followed the same formula at Wilmington, jumping to a quick lead and stretching it to a 95-59 win over

Findlay in a Mid-Ohio League game.

The University of Akron, trailing at halftime, rallied on the home floor to defeat Kent State University, 89-84. It was the seventh loss in nine games for Kent State, and Akron's 10th win in 13.

In Buffalo, N. Y., Buffalo State Teachers downed Fenn of Cleveland, 90-60.

Madison Mills Edge Wildcats In Overtime

Madison Mills of Fayette county won an overtime game over the Jackson Wildcats, 60 to 57, Friday night at Jackson.

With the score tied 26-26 at the end of the first half, Jackson moved ahead to lead, 45 to 39, as the third quarter ended.

Madison Mills scored 15 points compared to 9 for Jackson to deadlock the game as the final buzzer sounded.

In the three-minute overtime period, Madison Mills managed to score six points while holding the Wildcats to 3.

MADISON Mills scoring was well-balanced as five players hit for double figures. Mercer led with 14, followed by McClary with 12. Delay and Caudill collect 11 each, and Suyers had 10.

Ernie Milburn paced Jackson by scoring 24 points.

Madison Mills won the reserve contest, 36 to 23.

Klan Planning All-Out Fight

Preacher Leader Says Segregation To Stay

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—A Ku Klux Klan leader Thursday night said the organization will "not give another inch or another concession" in its fight to maintain rigid Southern racial segregation barriers.

The Rev. Alvin Horn of Talladega, Ala., addressed a gathering of about 200 robed men plus some 35 women and children in similar costumes. Newsmen estimated the number is regalia.

"We're going to get back some of the concessions we have already made the Negroes," Horn added. "We're going to purge jury lists and voting rolls of all unqualified Negroes."

"There are those in this organization who complain that we are not taking any action. I can tell you that before it's through you'll get more action than you want," he declared.

Horn, a Baptist minister, holds the title of grand dragon of the U. S. Klans, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. This is one of the splinter groups in which the anti-integration organization is divided.

Horn said he had received a "bushel basket full of mail" from the North criticizing a statement he made at Montgomery. He said there, "Negroes who try to force their way into our white schools aren't looking for an education—they're looking for a funeral."

Horn said he could "slap the faces" of ministers who preach racial integration from their pulpits. "It isn't according to the Bible and the teachings of God," he said.

Horn said the KKK will follow lawful means in battling integration.

U. S. Employment Logged As Record

WASHINGTON (AP)—The number of Americans employed in December was 64,550,000, a record for the month but a normal seasonal decline from November.

The Commerce and Labor departments, reporting this, said that employment throughout 1956 averaged 65 million, another record. The peak was 66,800,000 million in mid summer.

December employment declined

718,000 from November as colder weather restricted outdoor work. This brought new declines in farm and construction employment.

The December drop in agricultural employment was 1,100,000, reducing the winter time farm work force to 5,100,000. This is the lowest December figure for such employment in a decade.

There are several places in the oceans of the world where fresh water may be found. This is caused by springs escaping from subterranean rivers.

10 Prominent Speakers Listed For Ohio Pastors Convention

2,000 Ministers Expected At Big Columbus Meet

Session This Year Is Highly Rated; Opening Jan. 28

Ten outstanding speakers, nationally and internationally known for achievements in religious, academic and civic life, will address more than 2,000 Protestant ministers during the 38th annual Ohio Pastors Convention. The gathering will be held January 28-31 at the Franklin County Veterans Memorial Building in Columbus.

This year's session—largest of its kind anywhere in the world—looks as one of the most important ever presented by the Ohio Council of Churches, 141 N. Front St., Columbus.

Dr. W. Henry Shillington, the council's executive secretary, is the convention director. Dr. Ben Herberster, pastor of Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church, Norwood, is chairman.

The ministers, along with members of United Church Women of Ohio and others, will meet for fellowship, inspiring addresses and to conduct the official business of the council's assembly. The keynote theme is "The Answer is God."

A HIGHLIGHT will be the finals of the annual "Prince of Peace" declamation contest in which the six top high school orators in the state will compete. Also, the winner of the "Peace" contest's original-essay section will be announced.

The convention will open at 10 a. m. January 28 and concludes at noon January 31.

Music director of the sessions, whose delegates also will hear Governor C. William O'Neill, is the Rev. Carlton Young, minister of music at Trinity Methodist Church, Youngstown.

Music will be provided by three chorale groups—Ohio State University's Men's Glee Club, the United Seminary (EUB) Singers, Dayton, and Ohio Wesleyan University's Men's Glee Club.

Top speakers will include: Dr. David Read, preaching minister of Madison Ave. Presbyterian Church, New York City; Dr. John Baillie, principal of New College, Edinburgh, one of the six presidents of the World Council of Churches; Dr. Reginald Helfferich, executive secretary of the Commission on World Service for the Evangelical and Reformed Church; Dr. Louis H. Evans, minister-at-large of the Board of National Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.;

Dr. Theodore F. Adams, president of the Baptist World Alliance; Bishop F. Gerald Ensley, resident bishop of the Des Moines Area of the Methodist Church; Dr. James E. Wagner of Philadelphia, Pa., president of the Evangelical and Reformed Church; Dr. David A. MacLennan of Brick Presbyterian Church, Rochester, N. Y.; Dr. Ross Sanderson, associate director of the Dept. of the City Church of the National Council of Churches; J. Ernest Wilkins, assistant Secretary of Labor, Washington, D. C.

11-Boy Theft Ring Broken Up By Cops

CLEVELAND (AP)—Shaker Heights police have arrested 11 teen-age boys and described them as members of a ring which specialized in stealing automobile parts.

The 11, all Shaker Heights high school pupils, have been charged with delinquency and released to their parents. They will appear in Juvenile Court Feb. 6.

Detectives said the ring also had stolen a couple of cars and broken into at least one house.

Governor's Home To Be Open Sunday

COLUMBUS (AP)—Gov. and Mrs. John W. Brown will hold "open house" at the governor's mansion from 1:30 to 3 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m. Sunday.

It will be the last full day in which the governor's mansion will be used for that purpose.

Gov.-elect and Mrs. C. William O'Neill will move into a new mansion later this year.

After the interim governor and his wife leave the mansion Monday night, a token caretakers' staff of two will remain at the mansion. Seven inmates of Ohio Penitentiary who have been on the mansion staff will be returned to the prison that night.

Jet Noise Hikes Deafness Cases

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal agency says jet aircraft noise has increased deafness among servicemen and that it may be affecting numbers of civilians.

The Veterans Administration is paying out $39,355,672 annually to 94,233 veterans suffering from hearing ailments. Thousands of these cases, it added, are attributed to jet noise.

There is no known treatment for restoring hearing to a person suffering from total noise deafness, the agency said.

Italian Bridge Team Wins Easily

NEW YORK (AP)—Italy's contract bridge team overwhelmed the United States by 10,150 points to capture the world championship Friday night. The winning point total was the highest in the seven-year history of play.

The Italians, champions of Europe, led from the outset of the weeklong matches that began Sunday. They were never headed in the 224-board competition.

The victory gave the visitors possession of the Bermuda Bowl, emblematic of world supremacy.

Bomb Scare Time To Be Made Up

BALTIMORE (AP)—City Schools Superintendent John H. Fischer moved today to take away any holiday air from bomb scares at the city's schools.

He instructed principals that any time lost from classes due to bomb scares must be made up.

Two public schools were vacated for a time Thursday after a telephoned warning that bombs had been planted in the buildings. A search produced nothing.

Dynamite Found In Boy's Locker

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Police searching for a bomb in the Ponce De Leon school building found three sticks of dynamite Friday in the locker of a 14-year-old boy.

An anonymous telephone caller told Coral Gables police a bomb had been placed in the school. The 1,700 students were marched out and police started a search.

The dynamite actually was not dangerous because it contained no caps or fuses, the equipment necessary to explode it.

Police said the boy told them he stole the dynamite from a cemetery tool shack but had no plans for using it.

Bradenton, Fla., announce the birth of a son, Mark Allen. Mr. Lamb was a former coach and industrial arts teacher at Walnut Township School.

Lt. Doran A. Topolosky has returned to duty in New York City, N. Y., after spending several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Topolosky.

Klan Planning All-Out Fight

Preacher Leader Says Segregation To Stay

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—A Ku Klux Klan leader Thursday night said the organization will "not give another inch or another concession" in its fight to maintain rigid Southern racial segregation barriers.

The Rev. Alvin Horn of Talladega, Ala., addressed a gathering of about 200 robed men plus some 35 women and children in similar costumes. Newsmen estimated the number is regalia.

"We're going to get back some of the concessions we have already made the Negroes," Horn added. "We're going to purge jury lists and voting rolls of all unqualified Negroes."

"There are those in this organization who complain that we are not taking any action. I can tell you that before it's through you'll get more action than you want," he declared.

Horn, a Baptist minister, holds the title of grand dragon of the U. S. Klans, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. This is one of the splinter groups in which the anti-integration organization is divided.

Horn said he had received a "bushel basket full of mail" from the North criticizing a statement he made at Montgomery. He said there, "Negroes who try to force their way into our white schools aren't looking for an education—they're looking for a funeral."

Horn said he could "slap the faces" of ministers who preach racial integration from their pulpits. "It isn't according to the Bible and the teachings of God," he said.

Horn said the KKK will follow lawful means in battling integration.

U. S. Employment Logged As Record

WASHINGTON (AP)—The number of Americans employed in December was 64,550,000, a record for the month but a normal seasonal decline from November.

The Commerce and Labor departments, reporting this, said that employment throughout 1956 averaged 65 million, another record. The peak was 66,800,000 million in mid summer.

December employment declined

718,000 from November as colder weather restricted outdoor work. This brought new declines in farm and construction employment.

The December drop in agricultural employment was 1,100,000, reducing the winter time farm work force to 5,100,000. This is the lowest December figure for such employment in a decade.

There are several places in the oceans of the world where fresh water may be found. This is caused by springs escaping from subterranean rivers.
